  - Professor Sir John Hardy (UCL)
- Interdisciplinary Programme with speakers from 7 different Departments
- Minimum of 2.5 hours direct networking time
- Gala dinner in the beautiful Old Hall

"I think CNS deserves the description of celebration rather than seminar because the joy of everyone to be together and sharing science in person shone throughout the day and really made me realise the strength of community here..."

Ailie - PhD student

About CNS2027

This meeting will be open to neuroscientists of every discipline and talks and posters will be presented on all the themes of Cambridge Neuroscience. Sponsoring CNS2027 will:

- Provide the perfect opportunity for you to promote your organisation to a passionate audience of neuroscientists across a wide range of disciplines.
- Provide excellent networking opportunities, giving you the chance to connect with potential employees, partners and customers and form strategic alliances.
- Ensure that your organisation is at the forefront of neuroscience in the UK and worldwide, enhancing your visibility and influence.

Our speakers will attract an international audience of up to 250 delegates, primarily researchers and industry from the Cambridge innovation ecosystem.

About Queens' College's unique spaces

- Fitzpatrick Hall - A modern, wood panelled, fully air-conditioned lecture theatre.
- Cripps Hall - the main dining and exhibition space is a beautiful modern space with high ceilings, endless natural light, chestnut panelling and grand portraits hanging.
- Old Hall - The original college dining hall, dating from 1448, retains many historic features. With its fireplace, decorated wood panelling on the walls, stained glass windows, tiled floor and subtle lighting, the Old Hall is a stunningly atmospheric venue for our conference dinner.
